SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH
GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 30TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1902.

SAMUEL FRANCE, Appellant

versus

J. ARCHER, P.C. 448, Respondent.

The appellant in this case was convicted and sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour, on an information charging him with having on or about the 16th April, 1902, at No. 50 Village, in the Corentyne Judicial District, county of Berbice and colony of British Guiana, feloniously stolen, taken and carried away a quantity of barbed wire of the value of $13 41, the property of the inhabitants of No. 50 Village.

Against this decision he has appealed for the following reasons:—

"1. That the decision is erroneous in point of law.
(a.) Because there is no evidence of taking and carrying away by the defendant of any wire the property of the inhabitants of No. 50 Village or any individual.

(b.) Because there is no evidence to connect defendant with the larceny of wire of any value, the property of the inhabitants of 50 Village or any individual.

2. That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence in like manner as if the case had been tried by a jury there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict.

At the hearing of the appeal the acting Solicitor General for the respondent, took a preliminary objection that the appellant not having complied with the provisions of sub-section 3 of section 5 of Ordinance 13 of 1893 was not properly before the Court and that the appeal should be dismissed and the decision of the magistrate affirmed under section 23 of the same Ordinance.

As, however, it appeared by information obtained from the Keeper of the Prison,—there being nothing on the record to show it,—that the appellant had been sent to Mr. Weber, a Stipendiary Magistrate, on a written order, for the purpose of entering into a recognizance to prosecute the appeal, and had not returned to prison, I concluded, that the recognizance required by section 16 of the Appeal Ordinance had been executed and the prisoner released under sub-section 2 of the same section.

A copy of a notice of appeal embodying the reasons for appeal, signed by John A. Abbensetts, barrister-at-law, but without any date has been forwarded by the magistrate with the record. This copy differs from the copy of the notice sworn to as having been served on the magistrate, the latter containing the words "for the appellant" after the words "Barrister-at-law." There is nothing on the notice of appeal to show when it was received by the magistrate but it would appear from a Post Office receipt attached to the affidavit of the person who posted the notice to the magistrate that it was despatched on 29th May.

The order of Mr. Weber to the keeper to send the prisoner to him for the purpose of executing a recognizance is dated 30th May and the recognizance itself which has been obtained after communicating with the magistrate is dated 31st May, 1902.

It is clear, therefore, that the notice of appeal and the reasons therefor were served on the magistrate while the appellant was undergoing the term of imprisonment to which he had been sentenced. This appears to me to indicate that all the steps taken to bring the judgment of the magistrate before this Court, except that of entering into the recognizance, were taken without the appellant himself participating therein. It may be that it was to prevent this the law (sub-section 3 of section 5 of Ordinance 13 of 1893) requires that when a person desirous of appealing is in custody he shall give notice of such desire to the Keeper of the Prison within twenty-four hours of his arrival in prison in order to ensure that the appeal comes from the person concerned and not from any other person on his behalf and possibly without his knowledge.

It is, however, unnecessary for me to rule as to the objection of the acting Solicitor General as having decided to hear the appeal on the merits I find that it must be dismissed on other grounds.

Mr. Wills, for Mr. Abbensetts, on behalf of the appellant, contended that the conviction could not stand inasmuch as there was no evidence whatever to show that the appellant stole any wire belonging to the inhabitants of No. 50 Village as laid in the information; that proof of the wire belonging to the proprietors of that village would not satisfy the charge, as the terms "proprietors" and "inhabitants" could not be regarded as synonymous, the word proprietor not necessarily involving the idea of residence in the village; to justify a conviction in the case the magistrate should have had some evidence to show either that the wire belonged to the inhabitants of No. 50 Village or that the term "the proprietors of 50 Village" had the same effect and meaning as "inhabitants" of that village.

It appears to me the property stolen belonged to the village and was rightly laid in the inhabitants under section 67 of Ordinance 13 of 1893. The term proprietors in the evidence was clearly used for the villagers and generally speaking, in this colony, by the term proprietors of a village, the inhabitants of that village would be understood. The objection taken is purely technical and at the most amounts only to a variance between the complaint and the evidence adduced in support thereof and would not be the subject of appeal under section 2 of Ordinance 15 of 1898, unless the accused was deceived or misled thereby. In this case the accused was fully aware of the nature of the offence charged against him and there was nothing in the complaint or the evidence adduced in support of it by which, in my opinion, he could have been either deceived or misled. The charge against him was substantially proved and he was, I consider, rightly convicted.

The decision of the magistrate is affirmed with costs.

R. A. SWAN, Actg. J.

PETER CHUNG TAIN-FOOK, Appellant.

versus

B. A. DAY, Respondent.

This is an appeal against the decision of Mr. E. R. Anson, Stipendiary Magistrate of the Corentyne Coast Judicial District by which he sentenced the appellant, defendant in the Court below, "to pay a fine of $2 and to pay $8 for a licence, both sums to be recovered as one penalty by distress, and failing sufficient distress to be imprisoned for 7 days."

This sentence was the result of a charge brought against appellant by Mr. B. A. Day, Commissary of Taxation, for occupying a room in which was exposed for sale merchandize and failing to take out a licence to occupy the same.

The reasons for appeal are:—

I. That the decision is erroneous in point of law:—

(a.) Because the complainant proved that the room is a part of the defendant's shop and is licensed by a shop licence issued for this financial year.

(b.) Because the room, the subject of the matter of the charge, constituted the defendant's shop within the meaning of the law.

II. That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence, in like manner as if the case had been tried by a jury there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict.

The magistrate's reason for judgment is:—"I consider the charge has been duly proved against the defendant." As I have had to remark in other similar cases before this Court, this can hardly be called a reason for judgment, the fact that he convicted the defendant before him was sufficient to show that the magistrate considered the charge proved, without any special declaration to that effect.

From the evidence before the magistrate it appears that appellant occupied certain premises as a shop at Plantation Skeldon for which he had a licence issued by the respondent, a Commissary of Taxation. The wording of the licence is to the effect that the licensee is permitted to occupy a shop, and the Commissary admits that he licensed the whole building. Appellant's shop consists of two rooms which are connected by a platform, but the Commissary says that after issuing the licence this year he discovered that there were two distinct roofs to the building, and that a licence ought therefore to be taken out for each room.

It appears to me the shop is one building—consisting of two rooms, both connected with and joined to each other and that the roof of one portion of the building overlaps to some extent the other portion. The reason for there being two roofs to the building is due to the fact that, one end of it is higher than the other, but this in no way divides the building into two.

A photograph of the premises which was produced by the appellant, and which Mr. Hutson, counsel for the respondent, had no objection to the Court seeing shows the shop to be one building of two rooms properly connected with each other by a platform.

I am of opinion that there was no evidence before the magistrate to justify his conviction of the appellant; on the contrary, it was clearly shown by the Commissary that he issued a licence as he had done for the previous year for the whole building, including that portion of it which was the subject of the charge. I know of nothing in the law which required appellant to take out separate licences for each room of a shop for the whole of which a licence had already been issued to him. The Acting Solicitor General for the respondent admitted that it would have been better had the Commissary waited till the end of the financial year before taking steps in this matter.

Conviction quashed with costs.

THE following Report on the Experimental Cane Cultivation for the half-year ended 30th June, 1902, is published for general information.

By Command,

Government Secretary.

SUGAR-CANE EXPERIMENTS.

Progress Report Half-year ended June 30th, 1902.

1. On January 18th, 1902, I returned to the colony from an official visit to Trinidad in which I had been accompanied by Mr. Ward, Agricultural Assistant in charge of sugar-cane experiments, and found that, owing to the very serious indisposition of the late Superintendent of Botanic Gardens, all work had been suspended on the cane fields from the commencement of the year. Work was actively recommenced on Monday, January 22nd, and has since been continued.

2. During the latter part of January the reaping of the seedling varieties was pushed on and was completed in the week ending February 19th. The large field-plots of the following seedling varieties were cut and the canes weighed and analysed, the tops being distributed to planters who had applied for them:—Nos. 78, 711, 721, 109, 102, 145, 115, 116, 74, 130, 117 and 95. Another series of large field-plots of Nos. 74, 115, 130, 117 and 116 were cut, and the canes weighed and analysed in addition, and a series of plots of forty-three selected varieties was similarly dealt with.

3. Several of the selected varieties in cultivation on the Brickdam field having more or less failed as ratoons were dug out and the plots replanted in part with two series of experiments devised in hopes of obtaining cross-fertilisation of the White Transparent cane and in part with the following selected varieties:—Nos. 1,143, 1,184, 3,287, 3,852, 3,866, 3,873 and 4,139.

4. A large number of varieties of seedling canes not hitherto sent out were supplied during the month of February to planters carrying on systematic experiments in conjunction with those of the Sugar Cane Experiments Committee.

5. On February 28th, Mr. G. S. Jenman, my colleague in agricultural work in this colony for over twelve years, died. His great knowledge and experience in connection with the majority of the tropical agricultural products which can be raised in the West Indian Colonies is consequently lost to us, while the energetic assistance and ever ready advice he was willing to give in all matters relative to the agricultural welfare of the country will be greatly missed by all classes of the colonists. Unfortunately of late years his failing health resulted in disinclination for the preparation of reports dealing with many of his observations and his notes were recorded in a manner which rendered them most difficult of decipherment except by himself. Hence, I fear that many valuable observations which he had made in relation to the sugar-cane experiments are not now available.

6. Early in March a commencement was made of the very necessary work of improving the drainage of the experimental fields. During the period under review this has been steadfastly followed up and assisted by the advice of the Honbles. B. H. Jones and R. G. Duncan and the expert supervision of Mr. B. Gainfort, members of the Sugar-cane Experiments Committee of the Board of Agriculture, the drainage system has been to a great extent remodelled and at present its efficiency is far beyond that hitherto attained. From the improvements contemplated to be carried out by Mr. Gainfort in the near future with regard to the main drainage of the Botanic Gardens' estate I anticipate a further marked improvement in the condition of the Board of Agriculture's experimental fields.

7. A considerable number of large Saman trees which were growing as an avenue on the middle dam of the cane fields and along the side of the north field and which were materially injuring the canes growing within the radius of their far reaching roots were cut down by authority of the Governor in March, and as opportunities offered have been removed from the field and dam. The effects noticed furnished striking illustration of the manner in which Leguminous trees and plants may denude the soil of readily available nitrogen before being compelled to fall back on the services of the nitrogen-collecting bacteria of their root nodules. A large number of palms and ornamental trees planted near the confines of the experimental fields were also, by virtue of the same authority, removed, as it is recognised that the experimental fields should be entirely devoted to economic work and that other cultivations however admirable in an æsthetic view are there clearly out of place.

8. The experiments with selected varieties of seedling canes have been continued in the Brickdam field during the period under review and the canes have received appropriate agricultural treatment. The older varieties of seedlings planted there show promise of satisfactory returns as second ratoons, the newer varieties planted in February have not done so well having been adversely affected by the continuous rainfall but now show signs of promise. Similarly three hundred and ninety-six seedlings of 1891 from the White Transparent and Bourbon varieties planted in this field have been retarded in growth.

9. The canes on the manurial experimental field were reaped, weighed and examined analytically in April, the results obtained being of some interest and importance. Samples of soils have been taken from the variously manured plots and analytical examinations are being carried out on them with the view of ascertaining whether any, and, if any, what changes capable of being detected by analytical examination have taken place in the soils of the plots during the experiments conducted continuously on them since 1891.

10. The southern half of the manurial experiment field has been re-arranged and planted with certain seedling varieties with the object of testing their nitrogen requirements; the courses of experiments with phosphoric acid and potash started in 1891 having been carried to completion.

11. A very careful selection has been made from the enormous number of seedlings raised from selected parent-varieties in 1901 and 4,500 have been planted out. Large numbers of the seedlings of selected parentage have been distributed to certain managers of sugar estates who have expressed their desire to assist in this portion of the work.

12. About five acres of land in the south field have been cleared from cane cultivation and are being planted in plantains and in various legumes. It is intended to allow this land to remain fallow from cane cultivation for a time as much of it has been continuously under cane since 1888.

13. Sergeant Byar has been appointed ranger of the sugar cane experiment fields and is living in the house on the middle dam of the fields. This appointment of a resident ranger has proved, up to the present, satisfactory.

14. The sugar-experiment fields are now in a far more satisfactory state of cultivation than it has hitherto been possible to get them. Great assistance has been given to me by the technical members of the Sugar-cane Experiments Committee of the Board of Agriculture, and I am convinced that the appointment of an advisory committee, the members of which are acknowledged authorities in practical cane cultivation, in connection with the experiments is a step in the right direction and one that cannot fail to be of advantage not alone to the experiments, but to the sugar industry of the colony at large. I regret that this step was not taken at the initiation of the extension of the experiments in 1890.

15. Since the experiments passed into my sole executive control I have caused the mode of keeping accounts to be somewhat modified so as to record the expenditure occasioned by each group of experiments. This could not be carried out in its entirety until the commencement of the financial year 1902-1903.

16. The following is an abstract of the field expenditure on the sugar cane experiments at the Botanic Gardens during the financial year ended March 31st, 1902:—

19. In addition to the investigations which are being carried on in the Government Laboratory, I have devoted much time to the preparation of the report dealing with the experimental agricultural work carried on during the crop years 1897-1901 inclusive.

This is now in an advanced stage of preparation and I hope to have it ready for presentation in the course of a few weeks.

20. In bringing this progress report to a close I desire to acknowledge and to direct attention to the consistent energy, zeal and attention which Mr. R. Ward, Agricultural Assistant in charge of Sugar-cane Experiments, has devoted to his work and which, in my opinion, cannot fail in the near future to render the experiments a credit not only to the Board of Agriculture but to the colony at large.

Government Analyst and Deputy Chairman,
Board of Agriculture.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 12TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1902.

SOONDIA, Appellant.

versus

DUBLIN, Respondent.

At the hearing of this matter the learned counsel for the appellant stated that he abandoned what was really the only reason for appeal, viz,—that illegal evidence had been admitted, as the case of the Queen v Lillyman in which it was decided such evidence was legally admissible had been brought to his notice.

An appeal was made to the Court to modify the decision and to give the alternative of a fine. The Court has in some cases modified the sentence given by the magistrate (Carrington v de Cairos, 26th Oct. 1901, Allinan v Bruce, 30th March, 1900.) Good reasons should, however, be shown before the Court will exercise this power. In this case there are, in my opinion, no sufficient reasons why the sentence should be modified by this Court; the reasons given are to the effect that the woman was a big, strong woman, and the man a little weak man, and that the story is highly improbable. There is nothing before the Court to show that these statements are correct. Even if they were correct they would rather tend to show that the magistrate's decision on the facts is wrong not that the punishment is one that should be modified.

If the prosecutrix's story is untrue the appellant can take such other steps as he may be advised to obtain a remission of the punishment, this Court cannot interfere with the magistrate's decision on the ground that he ought not to have believed a particular witness.

The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, Acting C. J.

BOBB, Appellant

versus

DORNFORD, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate of the South Essequibo Judicial District, convicting the appellant for that he did during the month of June, 1902, occupy a shop in which goods were exposed for sale and did then and there fail without lawful excuse to take out a licence to expose the same.

It is contended that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction in the case inasmuch as the summons was served on the defendant on a Sunday. The irregularity or regularity of the process whereby the defendant has been caused to appear is not essential to the jurisdiction of the Magistrate; the making of the charge in the presence of the defendant who answers thereto is all that is necessary. R. v. Hughes 4, Q. B. D. 614, R. v. Shaw 10, Cox C. C. 15, Dixon v. Wells 25, Q. B. D. 249.

It is also argued that the gist of the offence in the charge is failure to take out a licence to expose goods for sale, that the law does not require a licence to expose goods for sale but that licences are required for the building in which goods are exposed for sale. It appears to me that the charge does to all intents and purposes state the offence correctly. By section 20 of Ordinance 9 of 1902, every person who occupies a store, &c., in which there are exposed for sale any goods &c., shall take out a licence and by section 12 of Ordinance 2 of 1861 every person who fails or neglects without lawful excuse to take out a licence . . . shall be guilty of an offence. The charge here is that the appellant did occupy a shop in which goods were exposed for sale and did without lawful excuse fail to take out a licence. I think the words "to expose the same" are surplusage. Even if they were not the latter part of the charge would read, if set out in full, did fail to take out a licence to expose the goods which were exposed for sale in the shop occupied by the appellant. In my opinion this sufficiently complies with section 8 (5) of Ordinance 12 of 1893. It is urged that the Magistrate must order the person charged to take out a licence and under this charge the Magistrate would be bound to order the appellant to take out a licence to expose goods for sale and such a licence does not exist. Even if there was any doubt as to what licence the charge refers to the Magistrate does not under section 12 (1) of 2 of 1861 order the person convicted to take out a licence but to pay a certain sum equal to the amount charged for the licence.

It is also urged that the evidence shows the goods were not exposed for sale but were exposed for barter which is another and a distinct offence. I think there is sufficient evidence in which the Magistrate could find the goods were exposed for sale although some were actually bartered for gold. It is, therefore, unnecessary for me to consider what would be the effect if the evidence showed the goods were only exposed for barter. I am also of opinion there is sufficient evidence to support the finding of the Magistrate that the appellant was the occupier of the shop.

I have been through all the reasons of appeal raised by the appellant and find that they all fail. The appeal must therefore be dismissed with costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, Actg. C.J.

SERRAO AND ANOTHER, Appellants
versus

BOOTH, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Assistant Police Magistrate of Georgetown, convicting the appellants for that they being the holders of a retail spirit shop licence for premises situate on lot 65, Albouy's Town, did on Sunday, the 28th day of July, 1902, unlawfully keep open the said retail spirit shop for the purpose of selling therein spirituous liquors.

The charge is brought under Ordinance 20 of 1902, and it is contended that as the Ordinance does not specifically provide that the penalties thereunder are to be recovered by summary conviction, the offence is not a summary conviction offence within the Summary Convictions (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, and the magistrate could not therefore impose imprisonment in default of payment of the fine. By section 37 of the Magistrates' Courts Ordinance, 1893, magistrates have jurisdiction to hear and determine all complaints or informations for summary conviction offences including complaints for the recovery of fines, penalties or forfeitures which are not specially assigned by Statute to the Supreme Court. Part V. of the same Ordinance shows that there are only two procedures recognized in the Magistrates' Courts in its Criminal Jurisdiction, one under the Summary Convictions (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, and the other in respect of indictable offences. The magistrate clearly has jurisdiction to try complaints under Ordinance 20 of 1902 and the only procedure recognized by law is under the Summary Jurisdiction (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, the offence not being an indictable one. From the wording of the Ordinance 20 of 1902 there can be no doubt that the legislature contemplated that an order should be made by the Court in its summary criminal jurisdiction, and although the power to convict summarily is not given in express words it can be reasonably implied from the rest of the Ordinance that such jurisdiction was intended to be given, Cullen v. Rimbie L.R. 7, Q.B. 416, Johnson v. Colam 32 L.T. 725. I think the matter was rightly dealt with by the magistrate under the Summary Convictions (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893.

It is further contended that the appellants having been charged with unlawfully keeping open on Sunday a retail spirit shop for the purpose of selling therein spirituous liquors, and the evidence having shown that if any offence was committed it was by the appellants' servant and not by the appellants, it was not competent for the magistrate to convict the appellants on the charge before him. By section 4 of the ordinance, every holder of a licence is made penally liable and responsible for every breach of any provision of the ordinance by any person employed in or about the licensed premises in the same manner as if he himself had committed such breach. I think that the charge should have shown that the appellants were charged as being liable for an act committed by their servant in order to give the appellants full notice of the charge they had to meet. The objection is, in other words, that there is a variance between the complaint and the evidence adduced in support thereof. Under the provisions of section 2 of Ordinance 15 of 1898, it is not open to the appellant to maintain this objection. The appellants have not been deceived or misled by such variance.

The question which has been raised as to whether the penalty on the holders of a licence for a breach of the ordinance by their servant is joint or separate, is one of very great difficulty. The question was alluded to but not decided by Chalmers C.J., in Quinta v. Swain, Rev. Ct., 2 Decr., 1882. The leading case on the point is Rex v. Clarke, Cowp. 610, which is referred to in the Queen v. Littlechild, L.R. 6 Q.B. 293; see also Hardyman v. Whitaker, 2 East 573; The Queen v. Cridland, 7 E. and B. 853, and Magistrate's Annual Practice, 1900, p. 66. The principle to be gathered from these cases is laid down in Paley on Convictions, 7th ed. p. 212, as follows:—"It depends upon the wording of the particular statutes applicable to each case and the quality of the offence, whether each person be liable to a distinct penalty or all collectively to but one." I am inclined to think that from the wording of the ordinance and also from the quality of the offence that the holders of the licence are all collectively liable to but one penalty. The holders of the licence are not charged or liable to a penalty for any act done by themselves personally, but they collectively, as being holders of the licence, are liable for the act of a servant employed on the licensed premises. Of course each is liable, as was held in Quinta v. Swain; but I consider there is but one offence and only one penalty can be inflicted for that offence. It would be a great injustice if the amount of the penalty should depend upon the number of persons who held the licence for if each were liable to the penalty, a person who held a licence alone would be liable to a penalty of $500, whereas if five held it, the partnership would be liable to a penalty of $2,500 for the same offence. In Stones Justices Manual, 24th ed. p. 637, it is said that the question is one of such doubt that Justices are recommended as the safest course to convict each offender in a separate penalty, and where certain offences are committed by a firm to summon and impose the penalty on one of the firm only. It is however unnecessary for me to give a decision on this point as, for other reasons appearing hereafter, I am of opinion that the decision should be set aside. I merely express my views on the question.

After a most careful consideration of the evidence, I am of opinion that it is not sufficient to support the conviction. It appears that the shop is surrounded by a paling and the gates were closed and fastened. The police could not get in but were obliged to climb over the palings; they found a window of the shop open and the shopman inside; two other persons who were employes of the appellants were also on the premises. There was a board across the window and some glasses and bottles which had contained rum near, and also 3 or 4 shillings in money. There was no evidence that any outsider could have got access to that window, nor were they any but employes of the appellants on the premises. To my mind there is at most what has been called a mere scintilla of evidence that the shop was open for the purpose of selling, a mere suspicion. I think on this ground the conviction should be set aside.

It was also urged that there was no legal evidence that the appellants were the holders of the licence. The only evidence of their being the holders of a licence is an extract from the list of Retail Spirit Shop licences kept in the Receiver General's Office, in accordance with section 38 of Ordinance No. 8 of 1868, certified by the Receiver General as a true copy. By section 7 (1) of Ordinance 2 of 1861, the fact that a licence has been issued to any person may be established by an extract from the books of the Receiver General's Office, but that Ordinance by section 3 does not apply to licences for sale of spirituous liquors. The law relating to Retail Spirit Shop licences (No. 8 of 1868) has no similar section. The certified extract can have no greater effect than the list, the Evidence Ordinance of 1893 only allowing the certified extract to be put in evidence instead of producing the original book. It was held in D'Oliveira v. Darrell, Rev. Cases, 4th January, 1872, that the list of retail spirit shop licences is not evidence in a Court of Justice of the issue of such licence. This decision was referred to by Sir Wm. Smith, C.J., in Martin v. Holder, 21st July, 1889, apparently without disapproval. It does however appear to me that when a public officer is by law required to keep a list of licences issued, the production of that list might well be held sufficient evidence of the issue of the licences therein mentioned, unless the contrary is shown. I have great hesitation in face of the authorities I have cited, in laying down this opinion as being the law, and I refrain from so doing as it is not necessary for the decision of this appeal.

For the reasons I have stated I allow this appeal with costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, Actg. C.J.

THE DEMERARA RAILWAY COMPANY.
LIMITED, Appellants.

versus

TIMOTHY JACK, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of Mr. W. C. Harragin, Stipendiary Magistrate, awarding the respondent, plaintiff in the Court below $200 damages with costs for a cow killed on the railway line at Nabacis in the East Coast Demerara Judicial District.

The reasons for appeal are:—

1. That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence in like manner as if the case had been tried by a jury there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict.

(a.) That there is no evidence that the plaintiff owns the land on which the animal was, or that he had any right thereto.

(b.) No evidence that the plaintiff owned any part of section C, of Nabacis or had any right there.

2. That the decision is erroneous in point of law:—

(a.) Plaintiff's cow was straying or trespassing.

(b.) That the said cow being a trespasser or stray the defendants are not liable.

(c.) The defendants are not bound to fence off as against the plaintiff.

(d.) That the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence in such a measure as disentitles him to succeed.

(e.) The plaintiff had no right of pasturage or licence from any of the owners of the lands of section C, Nabacis, to pasture his animal on their lands on section C.

The evidence taken by the Magistrate in this case shows that respondent's cow, on the 25th June, got through a wire fence on to the appellant's railway, and was killed by a locomotive engine and train.

The liability of the Railway Company for not fencing, is limited to the owners and occupiers of lands adjoining the Railway. It is not at all clear from the record sent to this Court, whether the land from which respondent's cow got on to the Railway belonged to, or was occupied by the appellant. The Magistrate must have believed that one or other of these circumstances existed before he gave judgment against the Railway Company. I must confess, however, that I can see nothing in the evidence to prove that the land from which the animal got on to the railway either belonged to or was in the occupation of the respondent. As, however, it appears that the animal did get on to the railway by reason of an insufficient fence and was in consequence killed on the line I will allow evidence to be given here on 25th September, as to (1.) Whether section C is a common pasture adjoining the railway on which respondent had a right to graze his cattle; (2.) whether it was from such section C, his cow went directly on to the line; (3.) whether such section C has been surveyed and divided into lots, and whether such lots have been disposed of by sale, or otherwise to individual owners (4.) whether if the survey was made, respondent owned one or any of such lots, and if so does or do such lot or lots adjoin the railway, and was it from such lot or lots, the animal got on to the railway. If section C is a pasture evidence may be given of the right of the respondent to graze his cattle therein, as also any other evidence which may be forthcoming on this subject, and which may throw light on the case. Evidence may be adduced both by respondent and appellant, and I shall be prepared to hear any further arguments, counsel on either side may desire to offer for my consideration.

IN INSOLVENCY.

In re MANOEL DE SOUZA.

Ex parte Assignee, V. C. L. DE SOUZA.

The Assignee by this motion asks for an order declaring that the payment by the insolvent to his wife, C. L. de Souza, of $500 on the 13th March, 1902, shall be deemed fraudulent and void against him, the assignee, and that the said C. L. de Souza, be ordered to pay to the assignee the said sum of $500, with interest and costs.

A preliminary objection was taken that Mrs. de Souza was not properly before the Court as her husband, the insolvent, had not been cited. It is the practice of these Courts that the husband should be cited in order that there should be proof that the husband has notice of the action. In this matter the husband is an insolvent, and there can be no doubt that he has had notice of these proceedings. Counsel has been retained and has appeared on behalf of the wife and prima facie the husband must have retained counsel for her. The husband cannot now be cited as he is purposely keeping out of the way, it is said that he has left the jurisdiction; even the wife cannot now be found and I think under the circumstances it is unnecessary for the Court to appoint a curator ad litem.

From the evidence I find that on the 13th March, 1902, when the alleged payment was made the insolvent was unable to pay his debts as they became due from his own money.

It is contended that there is no evidence of any payment to the wife. The evidence shows that the insolvent took the sum of $500 from his cash, and has on several occasions stated that he took the money to pay in part a note for $1,000 given by him to his wife just before their marriage, the marriage being the consideration for the note. The insolvent had the administration of his wife's property and in his schedule he put that he owed his wife $500, the balance of the note. I think the evidence is admissible in this matter and shows that the insolvent drew the money for his wife. Under the Insolvency Ordinance, 1901, the wife has no preference for the amount of this promissory note. From the mode the insolvent dealt with the insurance money received by him I have no doubt his intention in drawing the $500 was to prefer his wife, there was no other reason why he should have taken the money. For these reasons I made the order asked for with costs.

INSOLVENCY JURISDICTION.

THIS 12TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1902.

Re MANOEL DE PAIVA, Debtor,

Ex parte MANOEL FERREIRA, a Creditor.

This is an application by Manoel Ferreira da Silva under rule 172 of the Insolvency Rules of 1901 (Rule 144 of Insolvency Rules of 1884) for an order directing Manoel de Paiva, the abovenamed debtor, to pay the said Manoel Ferreira da Silva the sum of $264 96 being 25 per cent. on the sum of 1,059 85 part of $1,089 85, the amount of a claim filed by the said Manoel Ferreira da Silva against the said debtor and actually due. The applicant also asks that the debtor be ordered to pay the costs of these proceedings.

Mr. Dargan, instructed by Mr. Forshaw, appeared to support the application and Mr. de Freitas, instructed by Mr. Dias, appeared on behalf of the debtor.

From the documentary evidence tendered in this case, it appears that on the 5th December, 1899, on his own petition of the same date, a receiving order was made against the debtor, Manoel de Paiva, his public examination being fixed for the 16th December.

On 21st December, Manoel Ferreira da Silva lodged a proof supported by the necessary affidavit, with the Administrator General against the estate of the debtor for the sum of $1,089 85. On the 22nd December, 1899, the Administrator General reported to the Court that at a meeting of the debtor's creditors held at my office to-day a statutory majority of the creditors who have proved their claims resolved to accept the composition proposed by the debtor to pay all preferent claims in full and the cost of administration in full and twenty-five per cent. in full of all the concurrent claims within twenty-four days after the receiving order herein shall have been rescinded by the Court.

On the 23rd December, 1899, the Court, on the application of the Administrator General, and on reading his report approving of the composition proposed by the debtor and accepted by his creditors, made an order rescinding the receiving order made on the petition of the debtor, on the 5th December, 1899.

The proof filed by the applicant does not appear to have been dealt with by the Administrator General except so far as it was entered in the claim book and considered for the purpose of ascertaining the statutory majority of creditors approving of the composition. The proof itself was handed over to the debtor by the Administrator General and a receipt taken for the same as I have ascertained by reference to the claim book. The document was produced at the hearing by the debtor, on the demand of applicant's counsel, due notice to produce having been given.

Applicant in his affidavit swears that the debtor has refused to pay him his dividend although requested to do so.

The fact that the sum claimed has not been paid by the debtor is not in dispute but the debtor served notice on the mover of his intention to adduce oral evidence to prove:—

1. That he was not at the time alleged in the application or at any other time indebted to the mover in the sum of $1,059 85 or in any sum of money whatsoever.

2. That the said claim of $1,059 85 was never admitted by the Administrator General as representing the estate of Manoel de Paiva.

3. That the said claim even if due at the time of the Receiving Order (which is denied) is now prescribed by Ordinance No. 1 of 56, section 6.

4. That the sum of $589 55, part of the said sum of $1,059 85, alleged to have been advanced by the applicant was for the working in partnership of certain gold placers of the applicant.

5. That even admitting that the debtor was indebted to the applicant (which, however, is denied) it is not competent for the applicant to claim without first transferring to the debtor one half of certain placer claims in the Puruni owned by the applicant.

6. That the debtor has not fully accounted for all the gold realized by him on the said placer claim.

7. That the debtor advanced in respect of the working of the said placers the sum of $1,007 17 and the applicant is now indebted to him in the sum of $213 31.

I have set out this notice in full for the reason that I can find no trace in the debtor's statement of affairs furnished to the Administrator General of any debt due to the debtor by the mover, nor is any mention made among his assets of any interest, right or share in or to any placers or placer claims. This would seem at first sight to indicate that the debtor's statement of affairs as prepared and signed by him and which was before his creditors at the time the latter agreed to the composition, was not correct and did not show the whole of his assets as it ought certainly to have done.

Mr. Dargan contended that it was not competent for the debtor now, and on an application of this kind to dispute the debt. The proof had been handed to him by the Administrator General at the time the order was made rescinding the receiving order; that if he wished to relieve himself of the proof the rules allowed him to apply to the Court either to get rid of it altogether, or to reduce the amount thereof, and that not having for such a length of time rejected the claim or done anything to get rid of it, he must be taken to have admitted it, and he could not now after more than two years had elapsed come forward and oppose this application by denying his indebtedness. In support of his argument he referred to Ex parte Kempe in re Sir William Russell 42 L.J. Bankruptcy 26; and ex parte Bacon in re Broad L.R., C.D., vol. 17, p. 447.

Mr. de Freitas for debtor argued that it was for the creditor to make application to the Court under rule 147 and not for the debtor; otherwise the debtor would be asking for an order against himself. The mover knew all along his claim was disputed and he should have set the Court in motion to enforce the payment of the claim. He urged that there was nothing in the old rules regarding the filing of claims in a composition, nor as to how such claims should be dealt with if filed. The debtor not owing the money refused payment and that was the only way he could deal with the claim under the old rules. It was not for the debtor to move the Court when he did not owe the money; the claim was sprung upon the debtor the day before the composition was agreed on, and it was open to him to set off any claim he may have had against the mover.

It seems to me that the applicant in this case filed his proof with the Administrator General in the manner prescribed by law. That proof was never formally rejected nor was the applicant called upon for any further evidence in support thereof. The proof was entered in the Administrator General's claim book and must have been considered when the composition was agreed upon—to my mind—on the basis of claims then existing. In the absence of any formal rejection, or notice of further proof being required the applicant was justified in presuming his proof was admitted, and in bringing this motion. While this proof remains as it is the applicant is entitled to a dividend under the composition and has a right to come to the Court to enforce payment thereof. As, however, the claim was never formally accepted and appears now to be disputed, lapse of time, in my opinion, not destroying the debtor's right to dispute, I order the amount claimed to be deposited in the Registry of Court and if at the end of fourteen days from this date the debtor has done nothing to get the proof expunged or reduced or taken any other steps which may be open to him, to show he is not indebted on the proof, I direct the same to be paid to the applicant. Mover is entitled to costs.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 16TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1902.

J. A. BRYAN, as father and natural guardian of

versus

H. J. BOWEN, Original Defendant,

J. A. BRYAN, Co-Defendant.

No evidence having been offered on behalf of the plaintiff and opposer and a witness having been called and examined, on behalf of the original defendant, who swears that the property now the subject matter of this action was purchased by J. A. Bryan from her, and that she was paid by him from time to time by goods from his shop and by cash obtained by him from gold digging. I declare the opposition to be neither just, legal, nor well founded, and dismiss the same with costs.

R. A. SWAN, Acting J.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 16TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1902.

J. A. TROTMAN, Appellant.

GEORGIANA ABRAMS (widow), Respondent.

In this case J. A. Trotman, "in his own right as guardian of his minor" brought an action against Georgiana Abrams, before Mr. W. C. Harragin, Stipendiary Magistrate, sitting at Plaisance in the East Coast Demerara Judicial District, for the recovery of certain articles of furniture, jewellery, &c., of the value of $97 30 which he alleged defendant refused to deliver on 30th May, 1902.

The wording of the plaint is somewhat peculiar; it possibly means that J. A. Trotman, in his own right and as guardian of his minor (son, probably from the evidence) brings the action.

The magistrate after hearing the plaintiff gave the following judgment:—

"Section 4 of 11 of 1893, non-suited with costs with fee to counsel of 10 per cent. $3 70."

Against this judgment, the plaintiff appealed on the following grounds:—

"(1.) That the decision is erroneous in point of law, the nature of the error being that the magistrate is wrong when he non-suited the plaintiff.

(2.) That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence."

No memorandum of reasons for judgment has been forwarded by the magistrate as required by law.

From the record it appears that on the 30th May, 1902, J. A. Trotman served the respondent with a written demand to deliver up certain articles enumerated in such demand to the value of $118 00 which he declared to be his property. The wording of this demand is as follows:—

"Mrs. Georgiana Abrams,
Plaisance Village, E. C.

Madam,

This is to inform you that unless you deliver up the undermentioned articles immediately, or their respective value legal proceedings will be instituted against you to recover the same being my property, viz.:

Here follows [a list of articles amounting in the aggregate to the value of $118 80 and then the notice continues:—

"Other articles not mentioned here would be so mentioned in evidence.

J. A. Trotman."

It is clear from this document which was put in evidence that the appellant had or pretended to have a claim against Mrs. Abrams, the amount of which was beyond the jurisdiction of the magistrate, and it is also apparent that he announced his intention of enforcing that claim by taking legal proceedings against the respondent.

The claim actually brought by the appellant was for $97 80. He did not as he might legally have done, sue for all the articles claimed from Mrs. Abrams, and abandon sufficient to bring the amount within the jurisdiction of the Court. To comply with the provisions of section 4 of Ordinance 11 of 1893, as to abandonment, the abandonment must be express; the mere fact of the plaintiff's entering a plaint for part only of what is due to him is no abandonment of the balance, and does not even prevent him from subsequently bringing an action for such balance.

Here appellant demanded goods from respondent of the value of over $100 and threatened her with legal proceedings to recover the same. Before the magistrate he only claimed a part of those goods, and I am of opinion that the magistrate under the circumstances would be justified in presuming that he intended to recover the whole of what he demanded from the Mrs. Abrams, by instalments so as to get the whole claim disposed of in the Petty Debt Court. That would in fact be splitting or dividing the cause of action which is expressly forbidden by the terms of section 4 of Ordinance 11 of 1893. Certainly, the appellant at the end of his evidence said—in cross-examination—"I abandoned the others" referring presumably to articles mentioned in the demand but omitted from the plaint; but this is not such an express and detailed abandonment of excess as is contemplated or required by law. If he wished to give up some of the goods which he demanded from the respondent his proper course was to make a declaration to that effect on the plaint itself, so that it might be clearly seen he had no intention of bringing another action to recover them.

I see no reason to interfere with the magistrate's decision which is accordingly affirmed with costs.

R. A. SWAN, Acting J.

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication, for general information, of the following Circular Despatch received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, with its enclosure:—

CIRCULAR.

Downing Street,
25th August, 1902.

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that the King has been pleased to institute a new Civil Order of Distinction, entitled "The Imperial Service Order," of which I enclose the Statutes.

2. The Order will consist of the Sovereign, the Prince of Wales and such Companions as His Majesty or his successors shall appoint.

3. The number of Companions is limited to 425, of whom 175 will belong to the Civil Services of the Colonies and Protectorates.

4. Only Members of the Administrative or Clerical branches of the various Civil Services will be eligible for the Order, which will be confined to Members of the permanent Civil Service of the Colonies. Retired Officers are not eligible for the Order.

5. It will be a necessary qualification that such person shall, at the time of their nomination, have rendered twenty-five years' meritorious service in Colonies with healthy climates, or not less than sixteen years of such service in Colonies or Protectorates which under the Pensions Acts or Regulations applying to those Colonies or Protectorates are recognised as unhealthy.

6. It will, however, be competent to His Majesty at any time to appoint specially to the Order, persons who, not having completed the prescribed period of service, have rendered such eminently meritorious service as to qualify them for Companionship.

7. The names of Companions will be published in the "London Gazette."

8. Companions will have the privilege of adding the letters "I.S.O." after their names.

9. Members of any Order or Knighthood will, if otherwise qualified, be eligible for appointment to the New Order, and Companions of the Order will be in no way barred from becoming Members of any Order of Knighthood for which their services may qualify them.

10. It will be observed from the concluding Statutes of the Order that the King has also been pleased to institute a Medal, to be designated "The Imperial Service Medal," which may be awarded on retirement to those Members of the Civil Services who do not belong to the Administrative or Clerical branches of those services and are not therefore eligible for the grant of the Order, provided that they have rendered twenty-five years' meritorious service in Colonies with healthy climates, or at least sixteen years of such service in Colonies or Protectorates which under the Pension Acts or Regulations applying to those Colonies or Protectorates are recognised as unhealthy. Only those whose retirement shall have taken place after the date of the Coronation will be eligible for the Medal.

11. Any recommendations which you may have to make, whether for the Order or for the Medal, should reach me not less than six weeks before New Year's Day, or not less than six weeks before the day which may hereafter be fixed for the observance of Coronation Day. Having regard to the limited number of Companionships available for the Colonies and Protectorates, the appointments to the Order which can be made in any one Colony will, of necessity, be few, and your recommendations should therefore receive your most careful consideration. The number of Medals to be issued is not limited but, in order to maintain the value of the decoration, it is not to be regarded as a reward for merely long service, unmarked by special merit, and you will bear this in mind in submitting your recommendations.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient, humble Servant,

J. CHAMBERLAIN.

STATUTES OF THE IMPERIAL SERVICE ORDER.

EDWARD, R. and I.

EDWARD THE SEVENTH, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, to all to whom these presents shall come. Greeting:

Whereas We are desirous of recognizing more fully than has hitherto been possible the faithful and meritorious services rendered to Us by Members of the Civil Services of the various parts of Our Empire, We do by these presents, for Us, Our Heirs and Successors, institute and create a new Civil Order of Distinction—to be designated as hereinafter described—and We are graciously pleased to make, ordain, and establish the following rules and ordinances for the Government of the same:

Firstly.—It is ordained that this Order shall henceforth be styled and designated "The Imperial Service Order."

Secondly.—It is ordained that this Order shall consist of the Sovereign, the Prince of Wales, and such Companions as We, Our Heirs or Successors, shall appoint.

Thirdly.—It is ordained that We, Our Heirs and Successors, Kings and Queens Regnant of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Emperors and Empresses of India, are and for ever shall be Sovereigns of this Order.

Fourthly.—It is ordained that only the members of the administrative or clerical branches of Our Civil Services shall be eligible for the distinction of Companions of this Order.

Fifthly.—It is ordained that the number of Companions of the Order shall not exceed four hundred and twenty-five, of whom two hundred and fifty shall belong to Our Home Civil Service, and one hundred and seventy-five to the Civil Services of Our Colonies and Protectorates.

Sixthly.—It is ordained that no person shall be eligible to be a Companion of the Order whose name has not been laid before us, Our Heirs and Successors, by one of Our or Their Principal Secretaries of State, and who has not at the time of his nomination rendered at least twenty-five years' meritorious service in the United Kingdom. Provided that in a Colony or Protectorate which, under the Pension Acts or Regulations applying to that Colony or Protectorate, is recognized as unhealthy, the minimum period of service shall be sixteen years: Provided also that it shall at any time be competent to Us, Our Heirs and Successors, to appoint specially to the Order persons who, not having completed the aforesaid periods of service, have rendered such eminently meritorious service as to qualify them in Our opinion to become recipients of this distinction.

Seventhly.—It is ordained that when We, Our Heirs and Successors, shall be pleased to appoint any person to be a Companion of the Order, such appointment shall be made by Warrant under Our Sign Manual and countersigned by one of Our Principal Secretaries of State.

Eighthly.—It is ordained that the decoration to be worn by Companions of the Order shall be a Badge or Medallion of gold and enamel, bearing on one side Our Imperial and Royal Cypher, and on the reverse "For Faithful Service," both to be executed in dark blue enamel on a plaque or shield of gold, surrounded by a wreath of laurel, surmounted by the Imperial Crown.

Ninthly.—It is ordained that the decoration shall be worn on the left breast suspended by a ribbon of one inch in width.

Tenthly.—It is ordained that the names of those upon whom We are pleased to confer the decoration shall be published in the London Gazette.

Eleventhly.—It is ordained that Companions of the Order shall have the privilege of adding the letters "I.S.O." after their names.

Twelfthly.—It is ordained that members of any Order of Knighthood shall, if otherwise qualified, be eligible to become Companions of this Order, and that Companions of this Order shall in no way be debarred from becoming thereafter Members of any Order of Knighthood for which their services may qualify them.

Thirteenthly.—It is ordained that an officer shall be appointed to the Order who shall be styled "Secretary and Registrar," and who shall be ex officio a Companion of the Order.

Fourteenthly.—It is ordained that the Secretary and Registrar of this Order shall be appointed by Us, Our Heirs and Successors, and shall have the custody of the Archives of the Order, which shall be kept in the Office of Our Secretary of State for the Home Department. He shall attend to the service of the Order and shall execute such directions as he may receive from Our Principal Secretaries of State.

Fifteenthly.—It is ordained that those Members of Our Civil Services who are not eligible for appointment as Companions of this Order may, on retirement from Our said Services after not less than twenty-five years of meritorious service in the United Kingdom, or not less than sixteen years of such service in a Colony or Protectorate which, under the Pension Acts or Regulations applying to that Colony or Protectorate, is recognized as unhealthy, be awarded a medal to be designated "The Imperial Service Medal," provided that no such medal shall be granted except on the recommendation of one of Our Principal Secretaries of State. Provided also that it shall be competent to Us, Our Heirs and Successors, to confer the Medal upon not more than five Civil servants in each year, who have retired after less than twenty-five years' service, should special circumstances in Our or their opinion justify the grant.

Sixteenthly.—It is ordained that the Imperial Service Medal shall be of silver and of a design similar to that of the Badge of the Companions of the aforesaid Imperial Service Order, and shall be similarly worn.

Seventeenthly.—It is ordained that the names of those persons to whom the Imperial Service Medal shall be granted shall be duly published in the London Gazette.

Lastly.—We reserve to Ourselves, Our Heirs and Successors, full power of annulling, altering, abrogating, augmenting, interpreting, or dispensing with these Regulations, or any part thereof, by a notification under the Sign Manual of the Sovereign of the Order.

Given at Our Court at Buckingham Palace, this eighth day of August, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and two, and the second year of Our Reign.

By His Majesty's Command,

Charles T. Ritchie.

The Permanent Secretary of the Treasury, and the Permanent Under-Secretaries of State for the Home Department and for Foreign Affairs, have been appointed a Committee to communicate with Heads of Departments and to select from lists recommended by them the names of persons to be submitted to His Majesty for appointment to the Order.

By Command,

A. M. ASHMORE,
Government Secretary.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 19TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1902.

J. A. GOMES, Appellant,

versus

T. M. HO-A-HING, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of Mr. L. Hawtayne, acting Stipendiary Magistrate of the South Essequibo Judicial District, giving judgment in favour of the respondent, plaintiff in the Court below, for the sum of $28 and costs for goods sold and delivered, &c.

The reasons for appeal are:—

"(1.) That the Magistrate's Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in the case.

(a.) By giving judgment against the defendant for the sum of $28 and $10 80 costs, when it was not proved that the defendant ordered any goods or boat from the plaintiff or any authorized person. (b.) By admitting illegal evidence, viz., orders written and signed by one M. Alexander for goods had by third parties.

(2.) That the decision is erroneous in point of law, because it was not proved that Alexander was the agent of the defendant (appellant) as alleged in the plaint, neither was it proved that he had any specific or express authority to act as such.

3. That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence in like manner as if the case had been before a jury, there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain a verdict."

From the evidence before the Magistrate it appears that M. T. C. Alexander in January and February last was manager and chief clerk to Mr. J. A. Gomes, and in such capacity and for carrying on the business of J. A. Gomes he ordered from plaintiff two hammocks for labourers of one of the customers of his principal. In the same capacity he ordered from plaintiff a boat named the "Active," on behalf of another customer named Lacon, and for taking Lacon's goods to Quartzstone. He gave written orders for hammocks and boat, and these orders—partly printed—were taken from appellant's books kept for business purposes. Alexander swears that the customer on whose behalf the hammocks were procured was in course of business charged with the same, and the charge for the boat "Active" was also in due course of business charged against Lacon in defendant's (J. A. Gomes's) books. Alexander admitted that J. A. Gomes had a "lot of boats," but that he got the "Active" from Ho-a-Hing because Lacon said he preferred it.

The orders for the hammocks were signed or rather initialled by Alexander for appellant, but the order for the boat contains his initials only. The receipt for the boat, however, is signed by S. Hendricks and purports to be for J. A. Gomes, Alexander's order being to deliver the boat to Captain Hendricks.

The clerk of Mr. Ho-a-Hing proved the delivery of the goods and boat according to the orders of appellant's manager, and also the fact that they were charged against Mr. Gomes, from whom payment was demanded.

At the hearing of the appeal, Mr. Gomes appeared in person, and contended that Alexander's evidence did not prove him to be the agent of the appellant; that evidence ought to have been given that Alexander was in the habit of contracting for him, and that there was no proof if he were agent that he was acting within the scope of his employment, or that hiring boats was part of the business. Appellant did not explain why he kept a lot of boats himself; surely they were not kept as ornaments only.

It seems to me that there was clear and uncontradicted evidence that Alexander was in appellant's employ as manager of his business, and in that capacity ordered the hammocks and boat and charged the same in his principal's books against the persons concerned. A prima facie case was, in my opinion, made out against appellant before the magistrate, and it was open to him to adduce evidence in defence to show either that Alexander was not his agent when giving these orders to Mr. Ho-a-Hing, or that in giving such orders he was manifestly not acting within the scope of his employment as manager. He, however, decided not to give or adduce evidence, with the result that the magistrate, as I think rightly, gave judgment against him. If Alexander was not his agent, and was not acting within the scope of his employment, it would have been very easy for appellant to go into the witness box and say so. He was present at the hearing and cross-examined the witnesses, and he, with his legal experience, must have known that the plaintiff had made out a prima facie case against him. It was impossible for Ho-a-Hing to say what was the extent of Alexander's authority; he was not a special agent for a particular purpose, but appellant's business manager, and it appears to me there were reasonable grounds for the respondent, not only believing he was agent, but that in ordering these goods as such, he was not acting beyond the scope of his authority. To what extent Alexander's authority was limited was best known to appellant, and having that peculiar knowledge it was for him to show that he was not liable.

It is necessary and expedient that parties should communicate with each other through the medium of third persons; but business would be impeded if it were requisite on all occasions that the public, before dealing with the agent should consult the principal. And accordingly the liability of the latter mainly depends, not on the instructions which he may have given to the agent, but on the question whether the agent was a general or special agent. If a servant or agent be accredited and vested by his master with authority to act for him in all his business of a particular kind; or if the agent being himself engaged in a particular trade or business be employed by the principal to do certain acts for him in that trade or business, he will in each case be held to be, with reference to his employment a general agent; and,—the public having no means of knowing what are, in any particular case within the general scope of the agent's powers, the wishes and directions of the principal,—the latter will be liable even although his orders be violated. In such a case the principal, having for his own convenience induced the public to consider that his agent was possessed of general powers is bound by the exercise on the agent's part, of the authority which he has thus allowed him to assume. And it makes no difference in such a case whether the agent acts as if he were the principal, or professes to act as agent. But if, on the other hand, the agent is appointed only for a particular purpose, and is invested with limited powers, or in other words is a special agent; then it is the duty of persons dealing with such agent, to ascertain the extent of his authority; and the principal or master will not be bound by any act of the agent, not warranted expressly by, or by fair and necessary implication from, the terms of the authority delegated to him.

In this case Alexander swore he was the manager of appellant's business. The nature of the business is not described, but it may be fairly inferred from answers to questions put by appellant himself that the hiring of boats to customers was a part thereof, Alexander stating that appellant had "a lot of boats" evidently for that purpose. And it seems reasonable, if one of appellant's customers desired to obtain the use of a particular boat belonging to a third person, that the manager of appellant's business should obtain that boat for him and debit him with the cost of the same in the books of the business.

On a careful consideration of the whole case, I see no reason for disturbing the magistrate's decision, which is accordingly affirmed with costs.

COUNTY OF BERBICE.

HEARING LIST.

THE following Appeal has been fixed for hearing on Tuesday, the 7th day of October, 1902 :—

M. P. OLTON,

Registrar's Office of British Guiana, Georgetown, Demerary, this 24th day of September, 1902.

NOTICE is hereby given that a sitting of the Supreme Court of British Guiana will be held at the Court House in New Amsterdam, Berbice, on Tuesday, the 7th day of October, 1902.

By Command,

M. P. OLTON,
Registrar.

Registrar's Office of British Guiana, Georgetown, Demerary, this 18th September, 1902.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH
GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 16TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1902.

Re M. F. DA SILVA

versus

JOHN LOPES and another.

(Motion by Defendant to set aside judgment.)

This is an application by John Lopes to set aside the judgment obtained ex parte against him by Manoel Ferreira da Silva on the 9th day of September, 1902, and for an enlargement of time within which to file his answer to the claim.

The principal ground for the application is that the failure to file the answer to the claim was due to an understanding existing between the counsel of the plaintiff, da Silva, and the mover that the matter should remain over indefinitely in the hope of an amicable settlement.

Mr. Dargan, for the plaintiff da Silva, in opposing the application, pointed out that the written consent to an enlargement of the time for filing the answer could from the wording of it not be taken to mean an extension beyond the end of the year 1901, and that when the mover received notice that da Silva had changed his solicitor, that should have shown him the latter meant to proceed with the case, and if he required a further extension of time he should have asked for it.

It appears to me after hearing counsel on both sides, that the mover's failure to file his answer was due to the fact that he was under the impression that the matter had been allowed to stand over indefinitely. The written consent for enlargement of time is as follows :—

"The parties herein consent to an enlargement of time to the day of 1901, for filing the defendant's answer.

Demerary, 17th October, 1901.

Chas. G. Parnell,
Solicitor for Plaintiff.

The mover contends that this means an indefinite enlargement of the time for filing the answer but I can hardly regard it in that light. At the most it can only be an extension up to the end of the year 1901. Mover may possibly have had some arrangement with da Silva's former Solicitor or Counsel which led him to regard the consent as for an indefinite period, but looking at the document itself, it seems to me to indicate a time when the consent terminates. The Court, however, is always desirous that cases should, if possible, be heard on the merits and as I believe the answer was not filed owing to a misunderstanding, I think this is a case where I may properly exercise the power conferred upon me by the Rules. I order the judgment obtained ex parte by M. F. da Silva against the mover on the 5th day of September, 1902, to be set aside and I allow the latter seven days within which to file his answer; under the circumstances, however, mover must pay all costs of this motion.

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Public Officers (Insurance) Ordinance, 1902.

Interpretation of terms.

2. For the purposes of this Ordinance, the expression "public officer" or "officer" means any person appointed after the 21st of December, 1900, by His Majesty or by the Governor to any substantive office or place in the public service of the colony which

Obligation
on Officers to insure their lives.

4. Every public officer whose life is insured under this Ordinance shall, as often as he is promoted to an office in a higher class or to an office which not being in any class specified in the Annual Estimate is of a higher salary than that previously held by him, effect an additional insurance of his life.

Additions to previous insurances on promotion.

5. Every insurance under this Ordinance shall be effected on terms to be approved by the Governor-in-Council, who shall have power to make rules for that purpose.

In the case of a first insurance effected by a public officer under this Ordinance, the total annual sum so to be deducted after allowing thereout interest at the rate of three per centum per annum on any part or parts thereof which will have to be advanced by the Receiver General for the payment of any premium becoming due in any year before the total sum has been deducted and in the case of any additional insurance effected after the first, the difference between the total annual sum previously deducted from the salary of the officer and the total annual sum to be deducted from his salary on promotion, after making such allowance respectively as aforesaid, shall be deemed to be the sum available for payment of the annual premium.

(3.) All deductions from the salary of an officer made under this section shall be applied by the Receiver General in re-payment of any moneys previously advanced out of the public Treasury for payment of any premium with interest thereon as aforesaid and subject thereto, to the payment so far as the same will extend, of any premium becoming due.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

IN INSOLVENCY.

THIS 29TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1902.

In Re H. DEC. BELGRAVE.Ex parte the ASSIGNEE.

On the 13th January, 1900, the Court made an order that the annual sum of $180, portion of the insolvent's salary should be paid to the Administrator General by the insolvent by monthly instalments of $15 in order that the same may be applied in payment of the debts of the insolvent. Application is now made to vary that order by ordering the insolvent to pay an increased sum, on the ground that his salary or income has been increased and his expenses lessened.

It appears that the insolvent's salary has been increased by $10 per month and he has been given the appointment of Inspector of Hackney carriages, for which he receives a further sum of $10 per month as salary. It appears also that the insolvent's son whom he was supporting is dead. It is also said that one of his daughters is no longer dependent on him but this has not been proved and is denied by the insolvent.

It is contended that the sum of $10 paid to the insolvent as Inspector of Hackney carriages is not salary or income within the meaning of the Ordinance as it is only temporary and may cease at any moment. It is clear, however, that it is salary within the meaning of the law, see In re Shine, ex parte Shine (1892), 1 Q. B. 522, Shoolbred v Roberts 6 Manson, 397, and In re Roberts (1900), 1 Q. B. 122. These cases decide that although the Court can neither compel an insolvent to earn his salary nor prevent his forfeiting it yet, as long as he receives it, such salary like any other property acquired by the insolvent after insolvency and before discharge belongs to his trustee, save only what is necessary to support himself, his wife and family.

Lord Esher, M. R. in In re Shine laid it down that the Court ought not to cut down the bankrupt's means of livelihood too closely but ought to have a liberal margin for his support. I am of opinion that the insolvent should pay the sum of $300 a year, by monthly instalments of $30, the first payment of this increased sum to be made on the 31st October next ensuing.

YONG.

I do not consider, to use the words of Mellor, J., in Walker v. Hicks, 3 Q.B.D. 8, that there is in this case an indorsement of reasonably specific particulars of the claim to afford the defendant an opportunity of seeing whether the claim is one to which he has any defence or not. It is not stated if the money was paid and advanced to labourers or to whom, it is not even stated the money was advanced at the request of the defendant nor how much was advanced. Similar remarks may be made as to the carriage of goods and as to the board and lodging of the men. I do not think it is sufficient to lump together claims for goods sold and delivered, carriage of goods, money advanced and board and lodging without giving some particulars as regards each claim. See also Parfaite Freres v. Dickenson 26 W.R., 479. The defendant has put in an affidavit denying in general terms his indebtedness, but that affidavit does not comply with the rules of Court inasmuch as it is not specific. It appears to me, however, that with a claim which gives no particulars any other affidavit but a general one would be impossible. I am of opinion that the writ is not specially indorsed; so as to enable the Court to give judgment.

RECEIVER GENERAL versus

L. FERREIRA AND ORS.

This is a claim against the proprietors of the undivided half of lot 200, Lacytown, for the sum of $162 65, being instalments with interest of succession duty due and payable in respect of the succession under the will of Antonio Ferreira, deceased.

This property was left by Antonio Ferreira by his will to Leopoldina Ferreira, and by her sold and transported to Augustinha Leopoldina Ferreira. No opposition was entered to the transport. The question for decision is whether the property is still liable in the hands of a third party for unpaid succession duty.

Antonio Ferreira died before the Estate Duty Ordinance, 1898, and therefore the Stamps Duty Ordinance, 1892, applies to this matter. The difficulty in this case has been occasioned by the fact of the Stamps Duty Ordinance, 1892, being, at any rate as far as relates to succession duty, practically a copy of the Act in force in England, where the whole law as to the tenure of land and also as to mortgages is perfectly distinct from the law of the colony. Words and expressions relating to English law are used which are difficult to construe when applied to the laws of the colony with regard to land and mortgages.

I think, however, that the only construction that can be given to section 82 of the ordinance is that it creates a legal mortgage on the immovable property of the succession in the hands of the successor or any person deriving his title through the successor. The plaintiff should certainly have opposed the passing of the transport, but his not having done so does not free the property of the charge or mortgage imposed by the law. If the transport did not show that the person transporting had acquired the property by succession, then I think it might be a question whether under section 91 the property would be liable for the duty. In this case the transport on the face of it showed that the property was part of a succession and would put a purchaser on enquiry to ascertain whether the succession duty had been paid or not.

For these reasons I think there should be judgment for the plaintiff, but as he did not oppose the transport as he should have done, I allow no costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

MOSELEY

versus

PIERCY AND ORS.

The plaintiff claims an injunction to restrain the original defendants from passing and the co-defendant from receiving transport of the north half of lot No. 12 Peter's Hall.

The property formed part of estate held in community by Quammy Thompson and his wife Mary Jane Thompson. Quammy Thompson and his wife made a mutual last will and testament dated 24th May, 1888, by which after the bequest of trifling legacies, the common property was left to the survivor of them, and after the death of the survivor to the defendant Piercy. Quammy Thompson died on the 7th June, 1889. The plaintiff claims under the will of Mary Jane Thompson dated 27th August, 1891, she having died on the 22nd October, 1901. The sole question for decision is whether Mary Jane Thompson could legally revoke this mutual will as far as regards one half of the joint property and make a new will dealing therewith.

A mutual will is the separate will of each spouse and can be revoked by one spouse, during the life time of the other without the others knowledge or consent. The surviving spouse can also revoke the mutual will, as regards one half of the joint property after the death of the other; but such power is taken away if the will disposes of the joint property and the survivor accept some benefit under the joint will. S. A. Association v. Mostert L. J. P. C. 41. In this case the joint will disposes of the joint property and the evidence of the plaintiff shews that Mary Jane Thompson took all the rents of the whole joint property from the date of the death of her husband to the date of her own death. She took the whole benefit that was given her by the will, that is, say a life rent in the whole joint property. She signed an act repudiating the benefits given her by the will on the 15th August, 1901, but up to that date she had been taking the benefits given her by the will and even after the act of repudiation she continued to do so. Mary Jane Thompson, under these circumstances could not in my opinion revoke the mutual will made by herself and her husband. She could not make a new and separate will bequeathing any part of the joint property held by her and her husband. The plaintiff's claim therefore fails.

There will be judgment for the defendant with costs.

EWING

BUTTERY.

This is an application on behalf of the defendant for a commission to examine the defendant in Barbados. The principles relating to the granting of commissions are stated by Mr. Justice Chitty in Ross v. Woodford (1894) 1 Ch. 38 and approved by the Court of Appeal in New v. Burns, 64 L. J., Q. B. D. 104. Prima facie a defendant who lives abroad and is sued in this Colony is entitled to a commission to take his evidence at the place where he lives. The plaintiff and defendant were originally residents in this Colony, but it is admitted that they went to Barbados some considerable time ago, and that the defendant has bought a property and settled there. The plaintiff and defendant lived together in Barbados as man and wife, but it appears they disagreed, and the plaintiff returned to this Colony and sued the defendant in the Courts of this Colony. The tribunal is chosen by the plaintiff, not by the defendant. It is true, that it is alleged, that the note sued on was payable at the Bank here but it was not presented for payment, such presentment having been, it is alleged by the plaintiff, excused presumably because the parties were living in Barbados. It would be oppressive and unfair to compel the defendant to come over here at great expense to attend the trial, or give up his case, more especially at the present time when, if he did come, he would be subjected to quarantine.

On behalf of the plaintiff it is stated that they are willing to consent to an adjournment until the quarantine is raised or the defendant has performed quarantine. I think the defendant cannot be compelled to have the case indefinitely postponed or to subject himself to quarantine.

The defendant is now represented by the Administrator General, and I believe this application is made in good faith. It is true it is made very late, but I do not think it was made for the purposes of delay; it appears that there was some idea of the defendant coming to the Colony but owing to quarantine and other matters his coming here had to be abandoned.

I think it is right to allow the defendants' application. The costs will be costs in the cause.

FERREIRA

DUMMETT.

The plaintiff alleges that she rented from the defendant a cottage into which she moved her furniture and effects, that the defendant thereafter wrongfully and forcibly prevented her from entering the cottage and forcibly detained her furniture and effects for about a month and that when she did get possession of her furniture and effects numerous articles were missing. On account of these wrongful acts she claims $240 as damages. The defence is really a denial of what is alleged by the plaintiff, the defendant alleging that he did not lease the cottage to the plaintiff but that she obtained possession and moved her furniture into the cottage without his knowledge and consent and further that he was always anxious for the plaintiff to remove her things but she would not do so.

The whole of the plaintiff's case really rests on her own evidence and that of her daughter. Dowkensing's evidence only goes to shew what goods were taken by the plaintiff from the cottage. The policeman Parris gives evidence which corroborates the plaintiff's evidence as to the defendant refusing to allow her to come into the yard on the Saturday evening. The evidence of the plaintiff and her daughter is the only evidence as to the renting of the cottage by the defendant, as to the refusal of the defendant to allow her to take her goods and as to the goods alleged to have been lost. The plaintiff says that although the rent was to be paid in advance yet the defendant allowed her to have possession on her agreeing to pay in seven days time. This the defendant denies and he is corroborated by his daughter; he says that he never made any arrangement with the plaintiff but with her daughter and that he insisted on the rent being paid in advance as he understood the plaintiff was "a bad paymistress." From the evidence it appears that the plaintiff does give trouble to her landlords and that Nurse, whose house she was vacating, refused to have her as a tenant when she took over his house from Munro. The plaintiff further states that she got the key at 1.50 p.m., from the defendant. The defendant states he went to his work after seeing plaintiff's daughter leaving the key in the door, and did not return till 5 p.m. The plaintiff's daughter says that when she and her mother went away, after making the bargain as to leasing the cottage, "Mamma had the key I suppose. The key was in the door." It appears that on the Saturday the plaintiff put her goods in the cottage, locked it up and went away with the key, and on her return with her daughter at 7 p.m. the defendant refused to admit them. The plaintiff called the policeman Parris, who stated that the defendant refused to admit the plaintiff as he said the rent had not been paid. He also stated that the plaintiff then said the defendant had agreed to wait a few days for the rent, a statement which defendant denied. The defendant alleges he then told the plaintiff to take away her goods. Parris says he does not remember this being said.

The plaintiff admits that the defendant came to her and went to her lawyer telling her to remove her goods. She says that she went four times to remove her goods, that the first time a man, Clark, shoved her out. Her daughter says that the first time they went defendant told her he would only allow her to go in, and she must take the things herself. The other two times they say they could not get in as the key would not fit as the lock had been changed. The fourth time which was about a month after the goods were put in the house the defendant got in the cottage from the back and opened the door for them, and they took their goods. If the lock had been changed it seems peculiar why the defendant did not open it with the key he must have had, and not have effected an entrance from the back. It is very difficult to understand what motive the defendant could have had in preventing the plaintiff removing her goods, as long as the goods were there it would be difficult, if not impossible, for him to get another tenant, and the cottage would be useless to him. There is no suggestion that the defendant ever claimed any rent. The defendant says that on the Monday he went to the plaintiff and asked her to move her goods that she refused, saying she had no where to put them; he is corroborated as to this by two witnesses he took with him. He then went to plaintiff's solicitor to try and get the goods removed; and he says that some time after she came and he asked her to remove her goods she said she would not as long as Clark was there. It appears that Clark had effected a levy on her goods before, and she had made a claim for a gold chain, &c., which she said had been lost, about which I will have something to say later. He denies ever having altered the lock. It is said that defendant cannot be believed because he did not let her in by the back way when she came on this first occasion, and he could give no reason why he would not. I think he did give a reason. He said he did not let her in by the back as she had brought no one to take away the goods and he thought as she had already got the goods in "clandestinely" if she got in she wouldn't go out and further she refused to remove the goods as long as Clark was there. Defendant says she only came on one other occasion with Mr. Abraham's clerk, and a donkey cart and then he let her in by the back way and she took her goods.

On this evidence it is not easy to say who is speaking the truth: taking the probabilities of the case and the discrepancies in the evidence adduced for the plaintiff I am of opinion that the defendant's story of what occurred is the correct one. My opinion is greatly strengthened in considering the evidence of the plaintiff as to the goods lost by her. There is a distinct contradiction between the plaintiff and her daughter as to how the articles alleged to be lost were acquired. The daughter states the gold chain 2 yards long was hers, her mother had no gold chain, no gold chain was lost when Clark levied. The plaintiff states she had two gold chains 2 yards long and that one was lost when Clark levied and the other on this occasion. It is admitted the plaintiff claimed the gold chain from Clark, as having been lost when he levied.

There can be no doubt that the plaintiff is not speaking the truth as regards this gold chain, and if she is unreliable in this important particular, it is impossible to place very much reliance on the rest of her evidence.

On the whole of the evidence I cannot say that the plaintiff has proved her case. It is not proved that she really rented the cottage; I think when she took possession she was a trespasser. Whatever the defendant may have done on the Saturday, in preventing her coming in I am satisfied he went to her on the Monday, and told her to move her goods and never prevented her doing so. I am also satisfied that the plaintiff did not lose the things she alleges were lost.

On the Saturday the plaintiff did not claim delivery of the goods in fact I think she did not want them as she herself said she had no where to put them. It might have been better perhaps for the defendant if he had in the presence of the police on the Saturday, delivered the goods to the defendant, but I don't think he is liable in damages for not having done so.

There will be judgment for the defendant with costs.

APPLICATION BY ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL
FOR DIRECTIONS

In re Minors D'ALMADA.

I am of opinion that the deceased Francisco D'Almada can only be held to have dealt with his half of the common property by his will. I think under the will the mother and each of the children take equal shares in the half of the common property belonging to the deceased. Under the transport of Lot 26, Laeytown, the mother and the children each take an equal share.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 11TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1902.

DEMERARA RAILWAY COMPANY, LD.,
Appellants,

versus

TIMOTHY JACK, Respondent.

By my judgment dated 12th September, 1902, I allowed further evidence to be given in connection with this case, and on 25th September, the hearing of the appeal was resumed, further evidence being adduced by the respondent and appellants.

From this evidence it appears clear that the portion of the village of Nabaclis called Section C was, in the year 1834, surveyed and divided into house lots, Section C, before 1834, had apparently been the common property of the proprietors of the village, and was used by them as a pasture.

After the survey of 1834, which was made by Mr. Perkins by order of the Governor, the different lots of Section C were distributed among the proprietors of the village, each person receiving a lot or lots as his or her share.

By this division the joint ownership of Section C disappeared or was wiped out, and the different lots became the private and absolute property of the individuals to whom they were allotted.

The respondent in this case does not own any portion of Section C, adjoining the Railway. Between the lot in which he has a share only (lot 3) and the Railway there are other lots which separate his land completely from the railway line, and it was shown in evidence that the cow belonging to him for the death of which damages were given, got on to the railway, not from land of which he was the owner but from land owned by another person. That being so, it is clear the respondent would have no right of action against the appellant Company, as being owner of land adjoining the railway.

It only remains therefore to consider whether he was the occupier of land adjoining the railway in such a way as would entitle him to recover in an action of this nature.

In the proceedings before the magistrate, it appears to me, the respondent claimed damages from the Railway Company on the ground that, as a proprietor of Nabacalis, he had the right to graze his cattle in the pasture, i.e. Section C, which he declared to belong to the whole village.

Before this Court, evidence has been adduced by respondent to show that notwithstanding Section C was divided and became the property of individual owners, yet such owners met together and agreed that Section C should still remain as a pasture in which the proprietors might graze their cattle. It is significant that no mention of this was made when the matter was before the magistrate. Then Mr. Brandford Trotman, the Chairman of Nabacalis Village Council stated that he allowed the cow to graze in Section C. It is evident, if that be so, that his permission would not avail the respondent in a matter of this sort. The permission or licence to occupy must come from the owners of the land themselves or by their authority, and there was no evidence whatever to show that the owners of Section C had authorized Mr. Trotman to give permission to persons to graze cattle on their lots or lands. Mr. Trotman's position as Chairman of the Village Council does not invest him with any power to permit the grazing of cattle on private lands.

As to the statement that the owners of Section C agreed that Section C should remain as a pasture for the proprietors, the evidence on the point is far from satisfactory. The agreement is said to have been reduced into writing and entered in a book, but the person who wrote it, and to whom the book belonged, is dead. The agreement in writing was not produced. Only a part of the proprietors are said to have attended the meeting, at which, it is alleged, Section C—notwithstanding the division—was still to be used as a pasture. It is not shown that the owners of the lots adjoining the Railway attended that meeting or became parties to the agreement, if there was any such agreement. And it is a matter of common knowledge that the ownership of village lots is subject to frequent changes, by sales, execution, or otherwise. There is nothing to show that new owners have agreed that their lots should be used by the villagers generally as a grazing ground for cattle.

The chart of Section C proves that each lot is regularly peeled off, that streets are also laid out, and that the land comprised in it is situated on both sides of the railway; not as stated in the Court below on one side only.

If the respondent desired to show that he had a right or license to occupy by his cattle the lot from which his cow got on to the railway, he had only to call the owner of the lot to prove that right or license—not having done so, the only conclusion I can arrive at is that he had no such right or license. The evidence as to the agreement of the proprietors generally is extremely vague and unsatisfactory, and taken together with the fact that it was produced at the last moment and never advanced in the Court below, renders it extremely problematical to me whether there ever was any such agreement at all before this cow was killed. But whether there was or was not such agreement, it is perfectly clear to me that all the proprietors did not join in it, and further there is no proof before me that the respondent had any right or license to occupy lands adjoining the railway. Respondent therefore, in this case, being neither owner nor occupier of land adjoining the railway, I am of opinion he was not entitled to recover damages against the appellant Company.

The judgment of the magistrate is reversed with costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH
GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 11TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1902.

HO-A-HING, Plaintiff,
versus
JOS. A. GOMES, Defendant.

This is an action by Ho-a-Hing, opposing the Transport by the defendant, J. A. Gomes, of "the East half of lot No. 77, in that part of Georgetown called Lacytown," on the ground that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff "in the sum of $628 69, being the amount of a certain overdue promissory note made by him jointly and severally with John C. Guenther, Ernest G. Swain and Joseph D. Skelly, in favour of the said Ho-a-Hing in Georgetown, Demerary, dated 16th January, 1902, and payable three months after date at the British Guiana Bank in Georgetown, Demerara, for value which said note, on the same becoming due, was duly presented at the said Bank for payment but was dishonored for non-payment and remains unpaid."

Plaintiff alleges that it is not competent for the said defendant to pass the Transport referred to without paying the amount of $628 69 or giving security therefor, and he claims the payment of this sum and asks that the defendant be restrained from passing the transport until it is paid.

In defence, the defendant denies being indebted to the Plaintiff in the sum claimed or any other sum.

He does not admit making the promissory note referred to in the claim;

And he says, if he did make the said note he received no consideration for the same; and further if he received consideration for the same, he signed the same, with the knowledge of the plaintiff as surety only for the said John C. Guenther, Ernest G. Swain, and Joseph D. Skelly.

Defendant further declares, that Guenther, Swain and Skelly have property in the Colony known to the plaintiff.

An application on behalf of plaintiff having been made to take the evidence of J. M. Ho-a-Hing de bene esse the Court, on the 29th day of July, 1902, examined him, and such evidence in accordance with the rules of Court was put in on the 23rd September when the case was heard.

The evidence in this case is somewhat conflicting. Plaintiff's son, J. M. Ho-a-Hing, swears defendant signed the note as principal and he denies being present at Gomes' office when the latter signed the note. He declared that plaintiff refused to allow the goods to be delivered, unless Gomes signed a promissory note along with Swain, Skelly and Guenther for payment of the same. The evidence of Mr. Craig, an employee of plaintiff, corroborates to a great extent that of J. M. Ho-a-Hing. On the other hand Gomes, Swain and Gomes' clerk all swear that J. M. Ho-a-Hing was present at defendant's office when the latter signed the note, and that he accepted Gomes as security.

From the evidence it appears that Gomes, Swain, Skelly, Guenther and J. M. Ho-a-Hing, were partners in a company called The New York Diamond Syndicate. The partnership agreement has been put in evidence. According to that agreement each partner had to contribute a certain sum towards the cost of the undertaking and the defendant was constituted the general agent of the Syndicate. It is alleged that it was agreed between themselves that defendant was to supply boats, tools, &c., as his share of the cost of the expedition, and that Skelly, Guenther and Swain were to supply the necessary provisions as their contribution. Nothing of this is to be found in the articles of agreement, but it is contended that it was all known to J. M. Ho-a-Hing and that he being the Manager of the plaintiff's business it must be taken that his knowledge was the knowledge of the plaintiff.

The goods for the expedition were selected by E. G. Swain, on 14th February, and directed by him to be charged, according to Craig's evidence, to the New York Syndicate. Mr. Craig, Manager of plaintiff's grocery department says that, on 15th in consequence of instructions received, he drew up a demand Pro. note for the goods ordered by Mr. Swain for the New York Syndicate. This note was signed by Skelly, Guenther and Swain. Craig says that J. M. Ho-a-Hing gave the note to Swain and told him to get Gomes' signature to it and that Swain came back later and said Gomes refused to sign a demand note. Swain denies this and says he never took the demand note to Gomes to sign but that he Skelly and Guenther signed it and gave it to J. M. Ho-a-Hing who kept it. Gomes also denies that any demand note was brought to him for signature.

Craig goes on to say that he took the note to plaintiff who was ill upstairs at the time and told him that Swain said Gomes would not sign a demand note but would sign a three month's note. Plaintiff then said he would accept a three month's note signed by Skelly, Swain, Guenther and Gomes, upon this a fresh note was drawn up and signed at the office by Skelly, Swain and Guenther and was then given to Swain to obtain Gomes' signature thereto. Mr. Craig says Swain brought back the note next day with Gomes' signature to it, and that the delivery of the goods, which had been stopped, was continued.

Swain denies all this, and says that on the morning of the 16th January plaintiff came downstairs and asked him how he was going to pay for the goods. He asked to see the demand note given the previous day, and he did not appear to be satisfied with the three names on it, saying he had not much faith in the Diamond industry. Mr. Swain says, "He asked me if I had any other partners, and I told him J. A. Gomes. I did not mention his son's name, as the son asked me not to let him know. He asked me once if his son had a share, and I only smiled." Mr. Swain does not explain what he meant to convey to the plaintiff by that "smile," but it is evident from what he says that the latter was ignorant of the agreement between the members of the New York Syndicate, and that the witness clearly did not want to give him full information on the subject. Swain continues:—

"Ho-a-Hing (plaintiff) asked me if I could not get Gomes to sign, and I said no. Gomes had put up all he had to. Ho-a-Hing, senior, said I might try. I said it was not fair; they had given us credit for four months, and we had given a note on demand, and they might at any moment levy on our property. I asked that a new note be made for four months, and in that case I might get Gomes to sign as security. They (Ho-a-Hing and J. M. Ho-a-Hing) said no, they could not do it for four months but three, but they would not take action for four months."

Then witness says a new note was drawn up and he and Ho-a-Hing, junior, went with it to Gomes' office. Gomes at first refused to sign the note but on witness explaining that the expedition would fail if he did not, he did sign saying that he did so only as security as he was deriving no benefit from the note. Mr. Swain declares that all the parties signed at Gomes' office, Guenther being sent for, for that purpose, and then he says:—"Gomes started to sign the note behind, Ho-a-Hing told him no, if he did that the old man would not take it, he must sign in front" now presuming Mr. Swain's statement that Mr. J. M. Ho-a-Hing was present when defendant signed the note be correct what does his prevention of Gomes signing on the back of the note indicate? Why would not the "old man" accept the Promissory Note unless Gomes signed in front? can any one doubt from this that what the "old man," or rather the plaintiff, required was the signature of Gomes as principal and not as surety and that is the reason Gomes did sign as principal. There can be no reasonable doubt that the plaintiff in this case took the arrangements for the payment for these goods, after the note on demand with the three names was submitted to him, into his own hands and refused to allow the further delivery of goods until he got a Promissory Note for three months with the signature of Gomes on it as principal. Plaintiff had no knowledge of the terms of the agreement between defendant and the others and when he heard from Swain, that Gomes was a partner in the New York Syndicate it is not surprising that he insisted on his name being put on the note before he allowed the goods which remained, to be delivered. Those already shipped were according to the evidence stopped at Bartica and placed in plaintiff's store there. Whatever knowledge plaintiff's son may have had of the arrangements between the partners of the New York Syndicate, it is clear the plaintiff had no such knowledge and Swain admits that he only smiled when plaintiff asked if his son J. M. Ho-a-Hing, was a partner. The son submitted all the arrangements to his father for approval and the latter undoubtedly dictated the terms on which the goods would be handed over. The plaintiff, in fact, in the matter of this note, according to Mr. Swain, dealt with him directly and not through his son. As to Mr. Gomes deriving no benefit from the note, that contention seems to me perfectly untenable. Gomes was a partner in the Syndicate and the general Agent of the same. It was to his interest that the expedition should proceed, and unless these goods were obtained that could not happen. Clearly there was consideration for his signing as principal and as such, in my opinion, he undoubtedly did sign. He was interested in the subject matter of the promise or transaction and having signed as principal he stands in the position of a principal contracting party. Having signed as principal, it is for him to satisfy the Court that he had no interest in the subject matter of the promise, and that he only signed as surety. I am far from being so satisfied. It seems to me from the evidence of Mr. Swain, that there was a desire to throw dust in the eyes of the plaintiff. Otherwise it cannot be explained why Mr. Swain should content himself with a smile only, when asked if the younger Ho-a-Hing was a partner. This young man was in his father's employ; was transacting business on his father's account with a Syndicate of which he, the son, was a member, and yet Mr. Swain, when ordering goods from the plaintiff, conceals that fact, or rather only smiles when questioned by the plaintiff on the subject.

It seems to me, that the goods were delivered by the plaintiff on the understanding that Gomes signed the note along with the others as principal and not as surety, and under the circumstances plaintiff was justified in opposing the transport referred to in the claim. That being so, there must be judgment for the plaintiff with costs, and the defendant is restrained from passing the said transport until the same be paid.

Having arrived at this decision, it is not necessary for me to decide what the result would have been if defendant had succeeded in convincing me that he signed this note as surety and not as principal. I may mention, however, that, in my opinion, even if he signed as surety the plaintiff would notwithstanding, have a right to oppose this transport, and as to the question of excusing the matters of a note before proceeding against a surety, I am extremely doubtful, whether that principle would apply here. Ordinance No. 13 of 1891, an Ordinance to codify the Law relating to Bills of exchange, cheques and promissory notes is based on the Statute Law of England, and I take it must be construed in accordance with English principles and decisions. If that view be correct then there seems to be no reason why the holder of a note for value should not proceed against a surety in the first instance, more especially when that surety is interested in the subject matter of the promise or transaction. I, however, simply offer this as an expression of opinion, it not being necessary—having found defendant signed as principal—for the decision of this claim. For a similar reason, I do not think it necessary to discuss what the effect of the cases at the Cape of Good Hope as to excussion quoted by the learned Counsel for the defendant would be, if I had found the latter was a surety only.

JOHN THEOPHILUS HINDS AND THERESA CORNELIA HINDS (single woman),

versus

JOAQUIN DE ABREU SERRAO.

This is an opposition to the sale at execution of E. lot 1, part of plantation Work-en-Rust (Lodge Village), on the east bank of the river Demerary.

The evidence adduced by the plaintiffs in this case shows clearly that they possess such an interest in the property levied on as entitled them to bring this opposition suit. The levy was made at the instance of the defendant for a debt due to him by one Samuel Gentle. I am satisfied that the whole of the property levied on is not the sole property of Samuel Gentle, but that the plaintiffs, under the will of Scipio Gentle, deceased, have an undivided interest therein which is not liable to be taken in execution for the debt due to defendant. There must, therefore, be judgment for the plaintiffs, with costs.

With reference to a question raised by the learned Counsel for the defendant as to the necessity of joining a co-defendant in a case of this nature, I am of opinion there is nothing in the Rules of Court which requires this to be done.

In the case of N. C. Small v A. Teixeira, decided 17th March, 1902, Mr. Justice Lucie-Smith said:—"I do not consider that under the Rules of Court 1900, the co-defendant need be made a party in an opposition to an execution sale. O. xxxvi r 43, provides that the person by whom an opposition to a sale has been entered shall institute an action against the judgment creditor. If the defendant thinks the judgment debtor is in any particular case a necessary party, application may be made to have him added as a defendant."

As to plaintiff not being entitled to costs unless it shall be proved that a notice in writing of the intention to oppose was served on the opposite party, I can find no rule relating to costs in oppositions to sales at execution corresponding to Order II r 9 Part II, as to costs in oppositions to the passing of Transports or Mortgages.

IN INSOLVENCY.

THIS 11TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1902.

In re Estate of AARON MEDFORD, deceased.

Ex parte J. E. STRICKLAND & Company.

In this matter Messrs. J. E. Strickland & Co. petitioned the Court that the estate of Aaron Medford, who died intestate on the 6th day of May, 1902, be administered in Insolvency in accordance with the provisions of Section 106, of Ordinance No. 29, of the year 1890.

The grounds for the petition are shortly, that the deceased at the time of his death was indebted to the petitioners in the sum of $452.49 and that his estate is, according to the information and belief of the petitioners, insufficient to pay the debts due by him.

The petition was heard on the 29th September, 1902, due notice of intention to oppose the same having been given by the widow of the deceased, on her own behalf and as guardian of her minor son, on whose behalf she alleged she had adiated the estate of the said Aaron Medford, deceased.

In her notice of intention to oppose the making of the administration order prayed for, Mrs. Medford, declared her intention to dispute the right of Petitioners to apply for such order.

At the hearing Mr. J. E. Strickland, one of the petitioners, satisfied me that the estate of Aaron Medford, is indebted to the petitioners in the sum of $452.49, that Mrs. Medford had admitted the debt to be a just one, and had promised to pay it but failed to do so. It appeared further from his evidence that a man named Williams had levied on property belonging to deceased's estate.

Mr. Brown on behalf of the widow contended that it was not competent to petitioners to apply for an order as they had done. He urged that Mrs. Medford, as natural guardian of her son and on his behalf, having adiated the estate of deceased, such estate was at an end and if any action could be taken at all it should be taken against the party adiating, the responsibility for the debts of deceased having, by such act of adiation, been assumed by him. Counsel further urged that there was no proof—and the burden of proof of the same lay on petitioners—that the estate of deceased was unable to pay its debts.

As to the first point, I am of opinion that the declaration of the widow that she, on her own behalf and as natural guardian of her minor son, adiated the estate, would in no way affect petitioners' right to proceed as they have done under section 106 of the Insolvency Ordinance. If that were so, in many cases, the law as to the administration of a deceased debtors' estate in insolvency would be rendered perfectly useless and of no effect. Under sub-section 3 of section 6 of Ordinance No. 29 of 1900, it is provided that:—"An order may be made under this section notwithstanding the executor has taken out an act of deliberation and the period of deliberation has not expired." If the estate can be administered in insolvency, in such a case I see no reason for deciding that it cannot be done here.

In this case Mrs. Medford was married to the deceased in community of property. In her notification to the Administrator General, she declared:—"I beg to inform you, on behalf of myself and as mother and natural guardian of my minor son, Randolph Edwin Aaron Medford, have adiated this day the estate of Aaron Medford, deceased, who died intestate at Beterverwaging, on the 6th day of May, 1902, leaving one child Randolph Edwin Aaron Medford, born 17th December, 1899.

I have been married in community of property to the said Aaron Medford. Date of marriage, 27th April, 1898."

It seems to me clear that Mrs. Medford could not, under the circumstances, adiate the estate on her own behalf nor could she adiate in her own behalf and also as natural guardian of her son on behalf of such son. The adiation in the joint capacity of widow and natural guardian is in my opinion of no effect whatever. It is incomplete as regards the son, and not lawful as regards the mother. Even presuming that her action can be considered a good adiation on behalf of the son, her declaration as to the adiation on her own behalf being set aside as of no effect, the result would be to saddle the minor with all the debts due by the deceased, a position which would not be allowed and against which the Court would most certainly grant relief. The widow has taken no step to reserve the minor's right to relief in case he should be found to be damaged as it was her duty to do. The debts due by deceased must of necessity be paid before the wife, by virtue of her marriage in community of property, and the son as heir ab intestato, can take any benefit. Whether the estate be adiated or not it is liable for the debts due by the deceased, and if it appears that it is insufficient for the purpose, I see no reason why it should not be administered in Insolvency so as to ensure each creditor getting a proportionate part of the debt due to him.

There is before the Court an affidavit of Mr. J. E. Strickland in support of an application for the appointment of an interim Receiver of the estate of Aaron Medford, deceased, in which he declares:— "That one Edward William, who acted as agent for the widow of the said estate of Aaron Medford, has caused all the property of the said estate, that I am aware of, to be taken in execution to satisfy a judgment obtained by him against the widow of the said Aaron Medford as having adiated the said estate, and the said property is advertised to be sold by the Registrar at 12 o'clock to-day" (22nd Sept., 1902.)

Now, if this statement be correct, and there is nothing in the proceedings to convince me that it is not, then the deceased's estate has been taken in execution for the benefit of one creditor. This seems to me to be almost conclusive that the estate of deceased is insufficient to pay its debts, and we have the declaration on oath of petitioners that according to their information and belief that is really the case.

Sub-section 2 of section 106 of Ordinance 29 of 1900, provides:—"Upon the prescribed notice being given to the representative of the deceased debtor, the Court may, on proof of the petitioner's debt, unless the Court is satisfied that there is a reasonable probability that the estate will be sufficient for the payment of the debts owing by the deceased, make an order for the administration in insolvency of the deceased debtor's estate, or may upon cause shown, dismiss such petition with or without costs."

The prescribed notice has been given: the petitioners' debt has in my opinion been fully proved, and I am not satisfied that there is a reasonable probability that the estate will be sufficient for the payment of the debts owing by the deceased. On the contrary, the proceedings lead me to the conclusion that the estate is insufficient for that purpose. Had the parties opposing this petition desired, or been able to do so, it was competent to them to show that the estate of deceased was fully equal to the payment of its debts. The fact that the property belonging to the estate has been levied on for debt, and that the petitioners' debt is unpaid, warrants the belief that the estate is unable to meet fully its liabilities.

The order prayed for is granted with costs.
